

Competition law in Hong Kong

In December 2015, new competition laws went into force in Hong Kong. The global, award winning team at Hogan Lovells is ready to help you identify and solve the most complex competition matters.

In December 2015, new competition laws went into force in Hong Kong. The global, award winning team at Hogan Lovells is ready to help you identify and solve the most complex competition matters.

The following information describes how we can help your organization:

- Competition review - what should I know?
- Commission investigations - what happens?
- Competition review - what should I do?
- Dawn raids - how do I survive?

With a practice team that operates in 15 countries, we provide comprehensive legal support, including:

- Concise advice that works globally, including companies subject to multiple regulators
- Compliance training for staff, both e-learning and on-site competition presentations
- Investigation response manuals and assistance, to help you and your staff response rapidly and effectively
- Enforcement actions and litigation

Contacts

Adrian Emch,
Beijing

Eugene Low,
Hong Kong

Latest thinking and events

News

Parity with international regulators? Hong Kong Competition Commission proposes to accept MFN commitments

Global Regulatory Alert

Hogan Lovells Publications

Information exchange between competitors – Hong Kong Competition Commission publishes decision on proposed pharmaceutical sales survey

Global Regulatory Alert

Hogan Lovells Publications

Hong Kong Competition Commission expands leniency program

Hogan Lovells Publications

Can you be personally liable for contravening Hong Kong competition law?

Antitrust, Competition and Economic Regulation

Hogan Lovells Publications

Antitrust spotlight on HR practices in Hong Kong

Hogan Lovells Publications

Tribunal forces Hong Kong Competition Commission to disclose more documents in first competition lawsuit